

Rules changes regarding broadcast ownership should be delayed until there can be substantive public discussion. Although media outlets are businesses, and thereby profit driven, the airwaves do not belong to them. America needs more diversity of opinion not less and that is true no matter where in the political spectrum one falls. News media need to serve the public interest as well as the bottom line.